Education Dept

TABLE OF CONTENTS

VOLUME I

SEPTEMBER ISSUE - SUPERVISION AND PSYCHOLOGY OF LEARNING AND TEACHING

The Existence, Measurement, and Significance of a Speed Factor in the Abilities of Public School Children: W. Line 1
An Experimental Study of Functional Learning: A. S. Barr and John S. Park 9
The Relative Contribution of Certain Factors to Individual Differences in Arithmetical Problem Solving Ability: M. D. Englehart 19
An Experimental Analysis of Reading Performance: Oscar F. Litterer 28
A Study of the Relative Amounts of Transfer Resulting from Three Methods of Study: John B. Cluley 34
Comparison of Two Methods of Studying History: John J. Dynes . . . 42

DECEMBER ISSUE - CHILD DEVELOPMENT

Introduction: George D. Stoddard 47
The Effect of Pre-school Attendance upon the I. Q.: Beth L. Wellman 48
Language Patterns of Pre-school Children: Mary Shattuck Fisher . . 70
Reputation Differences in Life-sex Twins: Harold E. Jones and Paul T. Wilson 88
The Measurement of Child Behavior in Terms of Its Social Stimulus Value: Willard C. Olson and Muriel M. Wilkinson 92
A Guide for Studying the Personality of a Young Child: Ethel B. Waring 96
A Study of Fears of Children of Pre-school Age: Elmer R. Hagman . 110
Some Problems of Sampling in Vocabulary Tests: Harold M. Williams 131
Preferential Handedness in Young Children: Ruth Updegraff 134
The Relation of Body Motility in Young Infants to Some Physical Traits: Orvis C. Irwin 140
An Experimental Study of the Development of Concepts of Relationship in Pre-school Children as Evidenced by Their Expressive Ability: Olive John Grigsby 144

MARCH ISSUE - EXPERIMENTAL TECHNIQUES

Experimental Procedures in Test Evaluation: E. F. Lindquist and Walter W. Cook 163
The Interpretation of the Coefficient of Correlation: Walter S. Monroe and Dewey B. Stuit 186
On the Accuracy with Which Reliability May Be Measured by Correlating Test Halves: William A. Brownell 204
Need for Standardization of Symbols and Formulae in Educational Statistics: Paul V. West 216
Standardization of Statistical Symbolism: Walter S. Monroe 223
Some Considerations Relative to the Standardization of Certain Procedures in Educational Research: Herbert A. Toops . . 229
Simplified Schemas for Multiple Linear Correlation: Harold D. Griffin 239
A Frequency-Product Method of Obtaining the Standard Deviation: Herbert A. Toops 255
Validation Against a Fallible Criterion: Edward E. Cureton 258
The Differential Predictive Value of the Psychological Examination of the American Council on Education: J. Virgil Waits . 264
On the Limits of Predicting Scholastic Success: Howard Easley . . 272
The Validity of Certain Prognostic Tests in Predicting Algebraic Ability: T. L. Torgerson and Geneva P. Aamodt 277
A Natural Test of English Usage: Roland L. Beck 280
Preliminary Report on the Stanford Binet I. Q. Changes of Superior Children: E. A. Lincoln 287

JUNE ISSUE - CURRICULUM CONSTRUCTION

Introduction: Henry Harap 293
Curriculum Research: Robert A. Davis and Milton J. Wilbur 294
Learning Essentials in an Activity Curriculum: Thomas L. Hopkins . 298
An Activity Curriculum in a School of Mexican Children: Junius L. Meriam 304
Learning the Fundamentals in the Activity Curriculum: Ellsworth Collings 309
Measuring the Skills in an Integrated Program: Etta Howell, Maude Wilson Dunn, and Dora Stoker 316
Social Problems as a Basis for a Vitalized Arithmetic Curriculum: Leo J. Brueckner. 320
An Activity Analysis of Secretarial Duties as a Basis for an Office Practice Course: Doris Tyrrell 323
The Relative Importance of Items of Chemical Information for General Education: Robert P. Wray 341